Abstract

Linguistic mode and the syntactic reason in the of Ibn Ya`ish , Sharh Al Mufassal , in the light of the modern linguistics

Nawaf Muslim Awdeh Al Hawanieh

Mu'tah University, 2006

In his book (Sharh Al Mufassal), Ibn Ya`ish used some linguistic patterns which generated new modes of Arabic which worth to be studied separately. As we appreciate the high value of Ibn Ya`ish`s syntactic interpretation of these modes , we started this study which explains the secret of what we note in respect of the difference of the syntactic interpretation for this linguistic phenomena.

This study discussed the structural interpretation of these new modes and its syntactic reason as to Ibn Ya`ish . The study contains five chapters and a conclusion. In the first chapter, the structural interpretation of the subjective modes has been discussed through understanding the modes which were under the following syntactic categories : nominal predication ( subject & predicate), verb predication (subject & subjective agent), verb abrogatives, and particle abrogatives.

The second chapter discussed the structural interpretation of the accusative modes which were under following categories: objects, participial and what is similar to the object in pronunciation . Here, in this chapter, I also explained the stylistic transitions and their impact on understanding some inflectional marks which I tried to apply as possible as I can where needed. The third chapter studied the structural interpretation of the dative modes through focusing the light on: prepositional phrases and prepositions.

The fourth chapter was about the structural interpretation of the subordinators through understanding the modes which were under the following categories: assertion, conjunction, appositive assertion and attributive. Finally, the fifth chapter explained the structural interpretation of the articles of meaning through discussing the modes which were under the following categories : specialized articles and unspecialized articles . As to the results, they will be clearly clarified at the end of this study .
